Wellers Law Group Website - Developer Notes

Practice Area News widget

Wellers currently have an RSS feed where they gather externally written industry generated content that is used throught the site.

On the new site, this is shown by the Practice Area News widget appearing on all Practice Area Pages and a few others.

What we want is for the news items(articles) to be pulled in automatically to the CMS from the RSS feed below on a regular basis. The posts will import as 'drafts' for us to change category and edit as required before publishing live.

We need the ability to set each page to display a different category so its displaying relevant news.

Note: This is separate from the Blog which will be opinion pieces written by the staff and needs to be set up as a standard blog.

We have used plugins like https://en-gb.wordpress.org/plugins/rss-post-importer/ before which work well. You may have others you use or be able to custom code it without a plugin.

How Can We Help You' bar

This bar is to display key short messages to highlight different areas that Wellers can help clients with that they might not know about.

There will be 20+ messages that need to be editable and categorised under Practice Areas. A practice area may have between 1 and 10 sub sections. This will enable the arrows to scroll through each of its sub sections. It shoudl also scroll through automatically by default.
